Bracken States Empire Policy Of Tory Party

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—John Bracken, National Progressive Conservative leader, outlining his party's policy on empire relations, said last night "even closer" co-operation with other commonwealth powers.

"I am in favor, therefore, of Canada acting as an autonomous power, to strengthen the ties which bind the members of the empire together and to this end I believe that a plan for continuous consultation in matters of common interest should be worked out by us," he said in a statement.

NOT JUST A TALK

"By that I mean consultation not just for purposes of talk, but described as 'exchange of views' or as verbal collaboration but definitely with a view to the exchange of minds on matters of practical policy. It has not been suggested, that it could never be considered that there should be such rigidity to any plan as would detract from our sovereign rights."

Mr. Bracken denied that Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, had asked Canada in a speech at Toronto to make a "commitment" to fall in line, in any event.

"Lord Halifax made no such request or even suggestion," said Mr. Bracken. "Very definitely he recognized our completely autonomous position. He asked us to seek to agree with the other members of the commonwealth on matters of full co-operation at the table of the empire in the determination of those features of commonwealth policy in which all of us are concerned."

SHOULD NOT REFUSE

"I say Canada should not refuse to sit at that table."

"Canada should emerge from colonial habits and should not fear to take her responsibilities as a full-grown nation and as a partner in the freely associated commonwealth. We have no reason to distrust our partners and we have now grown to a stature where sure-footedness is required."

Mr. Bracken said he believed and was sure Canada belonged in world organization for peace.

Actor Again Asks Suit Be Quashed

LOS ANGELES, April 18.—(AP)—Comedian Charlie Chaplin yesterday petitioned the state supreme court to quash $250,000 claim Jerry's civil suit naming him as the father of her six-month-old baby, Carol Ann.

Through his attorneys, the actor-producer made the same plea which superior court and district court of appeals had refused to recognize. This was that a stipulation was entered into with Miss Berry and her mother, Mrs. Gertrude Berry, as guardian of the child, that the suit would be dismissed if blood tests indicated Chaplin was not the father.

The conclusion was reported by three physicians who made the tests, but Judge Stanley Mosk held that the baby should nevertheless have its "day in court." The district court of appeals sustained Justice Mosk.

Chaplin was acquitted April 4 of state act charges involving Miss Berry.

Anti-British Stand in U.S. Assisting Japs

LONDON, April 18.—(CP)—The Daily Sketch, a featured article on its editorial page, said today that "anti-British propaganda" in the United States is "worth several divisions to the Japanese" and "must be tipped the scales in India if the Allies' military position in the Pacific should ever be gravely in jeopardy."

The flood of abuse against the British empire that pours out incessantly from certain quarters in the U.S.A. falls very accurately on Japanese ears," the article said. "As they are not letting it pass unexploited."

"They are telling the people of Asia—and more particularly the peoples of Hindustan—that the Americans, who are allies of the British, India, the British for the very 'crimes' which they—the Japanese—accuse them of, and unfortunately the Japanese propaganda is—the unequalled record of the British empire."

The article said that "the British empire is the favorite whipping block with the more irresponsible of the American public in search of votes."

Isley Certain Price of Bonds Will Not Drop

WINDSOR, April 18.—(CP)—Finance Minister Isley, who is expected to announce a forthcoming victory loan, said in an address yesterday that Canada's war expenses have been at their highest point, with a "continuing need for money on a scale that will certainly equal, and may exceed, last year's."

That said Mr. Isley, was the first need for support of the loan—"The obvious requirement of the money to meet the costs of the war."

DUE TO HIGH INTEREST

If there are any who fear that bond prices will fall as a result of the last war, let me say that this could happen only if we were to permit interest rates to rise," he said.

"Can there possibly be any justification for allowing interest rates to rise after the war? High rates would only be justified if when the war shortages are over, expenditures on capital development and consumer outlays should be increased to large as a place a real strain on our productive capacity."

"Everyone knows that there will be no such strain and that the problem of governments will be to make use of the enormous productive capacity that has been developed during the war and thereby prevent unemployment."

Liberal Policies Adopted in 1919 Nearly Complete

CALGARY, April 18.—(CP)—There is a "single root" in the Beveridge report which was not contained in the Liberal party's platform as it was drawn up at a meeting in 1919 when Prime Minister Mackenzie King was chosen leader of the party.

Liberal James O. Gardiner, federal minister of justice, said today that the Liberal party's platform was drawn up at a meeting in 1919 when Prime Minister Mackenzie King was chosen leader of the party.

Nearly all statements of policy made at the meeting in 1919 had been included in the Liberal party's platform, said Mr. Gardiner.

GLORIOUS CONCLUSION

Legislation being brought down in this session is bringing to a glorious conclusion under the leadership of the Prime Minister King the platform adopted 25 years ago by the Liberal party," he declared.

With the record being made by the prime minister will go to Britain to attend the conference of empire leaders "called to discuss plans for the world after the war which will make it possible for the world's people to live in peace," said the minister.

The day's dawn of history the people of the world have been united in a common purpose to believe in government by a chosen few and those who believe in that the best government is based on the rights of the people, and of a people and of the people," said the minister.

NO EXCEPTION NOW

"The present age is no exception," he declared. The United Nations, Canada and Winnipeg, representing the different idea of government, occupy two great armed camps.

"Socialists" were denounced by the prime minister as the centralized form of government. "The Socialists say we should select planning boards to run the government. If this were Germany, Italy, or some other country, I could name some who differed with our system as much as the Socialists do," said Mr. Gardiner.

Two GREAT LEADERS

Among the great leaders of today Churchill and Roosevelt stood out, said Mr. Gardiner.

NO ROOSEVELT'S greatest Liberal of today outside Canada."

One man who had more to do in bringing these two together and keeping them together, was the Canadian Prime Minister.

Papers in London Demand Statement On Burma-India

LONDON, April 18.—(CP)—Describing the situation on the Burma front as "disappointing," London morning newspaper editorials today demanded a quick official statement giving a full picture of the situation.

The editorials expressed concern over the Burma-India troubles were due to differences among the command.

"It has been evident for a long time things were not going well in Burma, and although the government has been making efforts to improve the situation, it has not been able to do so."

The whole position is too obscure to be reassuring."

CLAIMED CORRECT

The prime minister, Mr. Bracken had correctly interpreted the prime minister's remarks on Lord Halifax's speech, said Mr. Bracken.

The prime minister was "playing on words as he has in times of opposition and adversity," said Mr. Bracken.

Approval Required Treaty Drafted by Govt. To Provide for Admission Of Chinese to Dominion

By JAMES MCCOOK

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King said yesterday in the Commons Canada has prepared a draft treaty with China which would "supersede the Chinese Immigration Act of 1923 against which so many protests have been made."

The treaty will require approval of parliament and implementation by Canadian legislation, he said. The draft has been presented to the Chinese ambassador to Canada.

"The draft treaty provides for the admission to this country on renewable permits for temporary residence of nationals of the other countries belonging to approved categories: merchants, doctors, ministers of the gospel, etc.," said Mr. King.

ENTIRELY RECIPROCAL
"The treaty is entirely mutual and reciprocal and will, we hope, meet Chinese susceptibilities without causing opposition in any part of Canada."

The draft treaty had no parallel in any other country. The United States was meeting the same problem by admitting a small number of Chinese as permanent immigrants under the American quota system.

Mr. King said the Chinese government's reply to the proposals was awaited.

He made his statement after referring to an agreement between Canada and China on the relinquishment of extra-territorial rights in China, similar to agreements covering the same subject made by the United Kingdom and the United States.

Hon. R. B. Hanson (P.C.-York) said he had asked what consideration was given to the Chinese Exclusion Bill.

Under the 1923 bill the entry into Canada of Chinese was limited to members of the diplomatic corps and their staffs, to children born in Canada of Chinese race or descent, who left Canada for educational or other purposes, to qualified merchants and to students coming to Canada to attend university or college.

APPROVE RESOLUTION
Returning to work after the two weeks' Easter recess, members spent most of the afternoon in discussion of a resolution covering a bill to establish a new government department of reconstruction. The resolution was approved and the bill given first reading.

Mr. King said it was intended to appoint the minister heading the department from among the present cabinet members.

Capital sources said that Munitions Minister Howe was a likely choice.

Mr. King tabled copies of a mutual aid agreement with the French Committee of National Liberation signed last week. The agreement "formalizes" conditions under which aid had been given and will be given in the future.

At the evening sitting the house approved a resolution covering a bill to set up a department of veterans' affairs and gave first reading to the bill.

RELIEF BILL READ
First reading also was given a bill covering $10,000,000 for expenditures under the United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration.

Third reading was given bills repealing the Water Metres Inspection Act and providing for the refunding of Canadian National Railway obligations matured, maturing and callable.

First reading was given a bill to provide for the salary of an additional justice of the peace of the Exchequer Court of Canada.

Mr. King also tabled copies of the treaty between Canada and China on the relinquishing of extra-territorial rights which will abrogate all international agreements which authorize British or Canadian authorities to exercise jurisdiction in China over Canadian nationals.

RIGHTS PROTECTED
Relinquishment of extra-territorial rights did not affect existing rights of Canadian nationals with respect to real property in China, said Mr. King. Canadians in China will have the right to travel, reside and carry on trade in China.

Mr. King said the problem of reconstruction would involve the re-employment of nearly 2,000,000 Canadians now in the armed synthetic rubber plant at Sarnia, Ont., was approximately $10,000,000 and so far management fees worth $40,000 have been paid out. Munitions Minister Howe said in reply to a question from T. C. Douglas (C.C.F.-Weyburn).

Total cost of wheat operations of the Canadian wheat board from its inception July 31, 1943, has been $22,249,580. Commerce Minister MacKinnon said in reply to a question from O. T. Purdy (L.-Calcutta-Hants). Operating expenses have amounted to $3,549,282.

PRODUCTION SUBSIDIES
Production subsidies paid by the emergency coal production board last year totalled $3,384,682. and commodity prices stabilization board coal subsidies were $284,385. It was reported in a return for George Castleden (C.C.F.-Yorkton).

Pensions have been refused in 458 cases of persons who died while members of the forces in the present war. It was reported in a return for Victor Quelch (S.C.-Acadia). In 38 of the cases it was held the cause of death did not arise from military service. Pensions for gratuity were refused in 325 cases of deaths. Pensions for gratuity were refused in 28,824 cases of persons discharged for disability.

PROJECTS REQUIRED
Public works and conservation and development projects would be required, especially while private industries are being converted to peacetime operation.

It was proposed the bill have a duration of four years after the end of the war.

Mr. King said he would be the last to ask parliament to consider a measure which would take people's minds off the war. But everything was owed to the men in the front and one of the greatest obligations to them was the assurance that provision was being made for those fortunate enough to return.

M. J. Caldwell, C.C.F. leader, said the new minister's first duty should be to survey the human and material resources of Canada and lay down plans for their utilization.

J. H. Blackmore, Social Credit house leader, said talk of reconstruction was "idle and futile" until it was explained where the money would come from to pay for it. A committee should find out where the money could be found without additional debt or taxation.

In reply to a question by John Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre), Agriculture Minister Gardiner tabled figures showing the sale of farm machinery in Canada was worth $28,482,000 in 1943, compared to $21,028,373 in 1942. The sale of implements by the 10 largest dealers was worth $11,675,157 in 1943 and $10,219,487 in 1942.

Premier William Patterson of Saskatchewan will appear before the commons reconstruction committee Wednesday, presenting a brief on behalf of his province, said Grey Turgott (L., Carleton Place) committee chairman.

Air Minister Power said in a reply tabled for G. H. Castleden (C.C.F., Yorkton) that five new airports were opened in Canada during 1943 under the British Commonwealth Air Training plan. They were at Souris, Man., Mo hawk, Ont., Abbotsford, B.C., Gimli, Man., and Mount Pleasant, P.E.I.

Bill Given Reading

Commons Places Approval On Resolution to Set Up Dept. of Veterans' Affairs

OTTAWA, April 18.—(CP)—The Commons last night approved a resolution covering a bill to set up a Federal Department of Veterans' Affairs to replace in part the Pensions and National Health Department and assume management of matters relating to the care, training, or re-establishment of members or former members of the forces. The bill was given first reading. Pensions Minister Mackenzie said the new measure would embrace previous land settlement measures for soldiers.

The present pensions and national health department will pass out of existence when the department of veterans' affairs and the department of social welfare are set up, he said.

All measures affecting rehabilitation and re-establishment of those in the forces will come under the veterans' affairs department, said Mr. Mackenzie.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive

agreed there should be a department for veterans' affairs.

Those deserving pensions should be able to obtain them with the least expense and trouble. When a man was accepted by the services, whatever happened to his health during his service should be automatically accepted as due to service.

ALLOWANCE INADEQUATE
Mr. Graydon said there had been "adequate provision" for clothing to those discharged from the forces.

The clothing allowance of $35 had been raised "not to an adequate figure" but to $60. Double this amount still perhaps was not adequate to fit out a man with civilian clothing.

Mr. King replied that enlargement of the number of departments had been made necessary by the war, involving the creation of two new defence departments, the munitions department, the national war services department. He had made clear that when the war was over there would be a reduction in departments.

If the social welfare department was to be mainly concerned with post-war matters, it would be operating at a time when the national war services department would no longer be necessary, Mr. King said. This was because there was no increase in the number of ministers.

Stanley Knowles (C.C.F.-Winnipeg North) said creation of a new department and even a change of personnel would not be sufficient if the government did change its policy.

"The government's policy should be much more generous. And while I am on the subject I would like to draw to the government's attention the fact that eight veterans of this war are on relief in Winnipeg."

NO PROVISION MADE
The men had been discharged for medical reasons, but the government had made no provision for them. The Winnipeg city council was debating whether it should attempt to stir the government into action.

The government should be prepared to spend billions if necessary to rehabilitate members of the forces so "that we won't have a sour generation," said Mr. Knowles.

"Generally should be the keynote of the government on the cessation of hostilities," he continued. "The most generous treatment should be given those who risked their life for their country."

Treatment of the veterans was a problem as important as the defence of the country.

He suggested that the Federal Pensions Act and the Veterans' Allowance Act should be revised to provide better treatment for veterans of the First Great War. Mr.

Mackenzie said the case of the eight veterans in Winnipeg had been brought to the attention of his department.

TWO PROBLEM CASES
"Six of them have been taken care of and two are problem cases which I would be glad to discuss at any time."

The house approved the resolution and gave first reading to the bill to establish the Veterans' Affairs Department.

Whooping cranes are North America's biggest birds.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting the condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from Metrick Drug Stores or any drug store, and use as directed. This formula which is used internally as a small way to take tablets, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended and it seems the length of time for any one to use it is a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money.

NEVER MIND THE BILLIONS

What's Your Share?

YES, billions will be needed to carry the battle into Germany.

The huge stock piles of materials will soon diminish when our troops move forward from the invasion beach-heads.

This will be a crucial year for Canada—a test of our man-power and money-power—a trial of our valour, our endurance and our self-denial.

The call to full duty will come to every man and woman at home this year—the duty to share this great year of trial with those abroad.

If each of us shoulders his full share the needed billions will be raised—the needed support will be forthcoming for the knockout blow.

SPORTS EDITOR

IT WOULD be unusual, and at the same time regrettable, to learn of any young Canadian who did not believe his home team to be just about right. And it is therefore not surprising to receive a letter from an ardent Port Arthurian—formerly resident in the city and chiefly concerned for the moment with certain Naval aspects of Canada's war effort—pointing out one or two of the virtues of the current edition of the Lakehead hockey club which we may have overlooked.

The letter, incidentally, was written just prior to the last game for the western title, and the friend he asked that his name not be mentioned went, "right out on the limb" as he put it, and picked Port Arthur for the Allan Cup final. Well, the Shipbuilders got over the first hurdle alright, by beating Kootenai on Saturday night and naturally this corner is also pulling for the west to take the trophy in the series which commences at Quebec tomorrow. The Aces will be tough enough.

And by the way, Winnipeg teams have won more senior hockey championships than any other city in Canada, the Allan Cup having gone to the Manitoba capital eight times. Port Arthur held the trophy five years—1925, '28, '29 and '30 and can be counted upon to make a strong bid again this spring.

Bill attended Royal Military College in Kingston, Ontario, where he took a prominent part in athletics and he later went to the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. He subsequently returned here to join the Canadian Army.

Mrs. Mae Smith Close to Rolling A Perfect Game

Playing in a regular scheduled game for the Ladies in the Monday Night Mixed Five-Pin League at the Recreation Academy last night, Mrs. Mae Smith came within an ace of scoring the bowler's elusive dream game when she recorded a total of 419 pins.

Mrs. Smith had nine straight strikes and ten in the tenth frame just missed the head pin by the proverbial whisker. However, she picked up the spare and came back with another strike, but whisker miss being just one of those things which keep popping up in bowling. In her next game after his big 419, Mrs. Smith started with three strikes in a row. Her three-game total was 874.

Western Champs Recover and Carry Much of Play to Generals

Orshawa Beats Trail 5-2 for Two Straight

Smokies Do Much Better In 2nd Start

TORONTO, April 18.—

(CP)—Orshawa Generals downed Trail Smoke Eaters 5-2 here last night in a hard-fought fast game to take a 2-0 lead in their best of seven Memorial cup series. Trail took a one-goal lead in the first period but Generals came back for five in a row before the weaksters notched their second in the final period.

Third game of the series will be played here Wednesday, with the fourth Saturday. The Trail team that stepped on the ice last night was a vastly different squad from the one that faced Generals 5-2 in the opener here Saturday night. They appeared to have recovered from their stage fright and carried the play to Generals for much of the game.

A crowd of 7,414 saw the game, only the number that turned out for the opener, but they were rewarded with a superior brand of hockey.

Trail opened the scoring less than five minutes after the start, as Eddie Miller counted on a lard drive from the right of the Orshawa net. Ben Smith took it up near the end of the period, but Trail was still carrying much of the play.

Orshawa added two more in the second. Bill Kinnick and Floyd Curry finding the twines, and Ted Lindsay and Gus Morton scored on break-aways in the third before Larry Lumsden closed the game with a play with Eddie Miller. Trail's razor-darting passing plays were working as they did in the first game, but the kids seemed to have picked up added speed for their break-aways, and were back-checking better. Harvey Bennett, the Orshawa goalie, had twice as much rubber to handle as in the first game, and pushed it aside coolly.

Little Bev Bentley for Trail turned in an even better exhibition than in the first game, and had the crowd yelling for him the whole way as he turned aside most of the Orshawa thrusts. His team mates gave him better protection, and were running the Generals into the corners.

Bentley had little chance on the goals that beat him. They were scored on rebounds or as Orshawa players rubbed in on the unprotected goal to feint the netminder out of position.

Trail's line of Roy Kelly, Dick Butler and Mark Marquess gave Bennett some of his most trouble some moments, and the trio missed some three or four sure goals through over-excitement.

TRUE STORIES OF CANADIAN WAR HEROES

Reporting six feet from the Canadian Corvette Oakville to the slippery skin of a U-Boat, Lieutenant Harold Lawrence of Brockville and Stoker Arthur Powell of Timmins, killed two Nazis, seized the crew and assured destruction of the submarine.

This exciting action was set down, in the Caribbean. The U-Boat, surfaced by depth charges, chose to fight it out gun for gun and shot for shot. In this ding-dong battle, the Nazis might have won because their armour and fire power were equal to that of the Canadian.

But the Oakville's veteran commander, Lt. Commander Clarence King of Oliver, B.C., rammed her, crippled her deck crew, ruined her gun, rammed her again, then ordered a boarding party to seize her.

The fury of the sea caused all but two in that boarding party to miss the jump. These were Lawrence and Powell. With a pistol in one hand and a light in the other, they faced 30 Nazis. The officer clubbed one overboard and shot a second who tried to rush him. The furious stoker killed a man who tried to brain him with an iron bar. Lawrence then made a circuit of the U-Boat looking for secret papers while Powell covered the fallen crew. The stoker reported that the Nazis had been talking amongst themselves about prisoners chained below.

With no time to spare, Lawrence sped down steel ladders, circled the unfamiliar sub, and found nothing. While below he felt the death lurch as the U-Boat lifted her stern toward the sky for the fatal plunge.

As she sank, the Canadians swam among their prisoners for a half mile until four were taken into the Oakville's boat and 23 gathered up by an American destroyer.

For this Canadian victory, Lawrence, Powell and Commander King were decorated and promoted . . . and well they deserved such distinction.

On the Battlefields of Italy, in the air over Germany and on the high seas, Canadians are proving their ability in this war. On the Home Front, Canadians have attained the world by their tremendous production of war materials. Here, at United Distillers, our entire facilities are devoted to the production of high-tested alcohol—total constituent of explosives, synthetic rubber and other war materials. We count ourselves fortunate that through our plant facilities and our specialized knowledge in this field, we have been able to make this contribution to the war effort of Canada.

What to Do With Germany

By LOUIS NIZER

gan with the conquest of Babylon by the Medes. They defeated the Hittites and the Semites, and demonstrated immediately that the word "Aryan" meant "honorable" and that an Aryan had superior intelligence and strength.

Such is the mental dishonesty of the Nazis that they supposed these tenets of their own idolized prophets. Anything that did not aid in moulding a war spirit must be sidetracked. Now is this tendency to discard text attributable solely to the ignorant. We find the intellectual circle, the professors of German universities, lending themselves to such methods. For example, the theories of Chamberlain gave rise to a whole series of interpretations and expanded works by learned men. Yet they, too, chose to ignore Chamberlain's broad definition of "Teutons" as including the English, Celts and the Scandinavians. Indeed, he even considered the French Teutonic because they were a people of Northern Europe, and he called the Russians "at least the Teutonic." Mein Kampf is no original work. It reveals itself as a puerile analysis of theories advanced and accepted by German before Hitler was born. The race theories in Mein Kampf are mere paraphrases of de Gobineau and Chamberlain.

The theme of world conquest and race supremacy, runs through the symphony of German hate and war plotting as a persistent, repeated motif growing ever louder and more maddening, until it reaches its furthest climax. Then blood flows all over Europe and other continents. Millions of German soldiers are once more on the march to kill, ravage, and commit unmentionable atrocities as that Deutschland may be able to.

The war lust of the German people is composed not only of a philosophy for conquest, but of a race theory to justify it. There is an additional ingredient, one that adds a mystical religious quality and transforms the political motive into fanatical pagan rite. Richard Wagner did not invent this ingredient. It existed in the folklore of the German people for many centuries. But he gave it palatable and popular form in brilliant music and story. To the rest of the world Wagner's opera were merely artistic fantasy. To the Germans they were reality, even if only innocuous.

STAR IN THE BACK

Another Wagnerian concept is the star in the back, which finally defeats the hero. Germany, according to this symbol, can never be conquered on the battlefield, but only by the betrayal of its repeated defeats must be offered, and Wagner has constructed a classic one. It is stabbed in the back. Of course, the ever present traitors, who are usually designated as Jews.

Not only Hitler, but the generals and the masses of German people insist that they won the First World War on the battlefield, only to be "stabbed in the back" at home. German acceptance of this alibi reconciled for them their belief in the superiority of the German race over present Huns, who are usually designated as Jews.

The Nazi campaign against the Jews revealed itself as an attack against all Christianity. The identity of Judeo-Christianity was fully exploited. Of course there is such an identity, as there is indeed among all religions. Having been conditioned to identify Judaism with corruption, the Germans found the proof that Christianity is of Jewish origin, conclusive proof of the corruption of Christianity. This was given as an unimpeachable vulgarity to the program. The

We've given up the Christian line. For Christ was just a Jewish swine. As for his mother, what a shame! Cohen was the lady's real name. Despite the ineradicable impact of religious convictions, the Nazis succeeded in tearing away Catholic children from their religious roots and subjecting them to the infection of Nazism. They succeeded in damning the Protestant protest and conforming the masses of Germany to the creeds of German antiquity. Bishops issued brave pronouncements. Pastors of all religions martyred themselves, but the religious revolt which would have flared to uncontrollable flames at almost any other country, machine guns or no, was lacking. The proletarian of all human feelings has in the past off times stirred revolt, occasionally in the very armies intended to suppress it. But in Germany anti-Christianity was given as an unimpeachable vulgarity to the program. The

OLD MOVEMENT

Hitler did not create a new movement. He inherited an old one as old as the German people. He did not write a new program. He culled the plans of Pan-Germanism, which succeeded him by many generations. He did not evolve a new policy. He followed the Prussian tale for conquest, revised technically by the lessons the military case had received in each succeeding war. He did not devise a new strategy. They were already publicly printed by other German despots.

What, then, shall we do with the German people? The answer requires consideration of four problems. First, punishment of the violators of International Law and the dictates of humanity. Second, the prohibitive precautions against the recurrence of German militarism. Third, economic and financial policy of reconstruction. Fourth, eradication (by education) of the poisonous doctrine of Pan-Germanism, so that Germany may safely join the community of civilized nations.

King Predicts House Changes After Election

Mr. King said public life was becoming more difficult as the years went by. He hoped the house would get far enough away from purely party considerations to believe that because a ministry had some of the young supporters made parliamentary assistants it was not seeking to give them "jobs."

The intention was helping to prepare men to more efficiently play a larger part in the public life of Canada.

Mr. King said he was "disappointed" to find Mr. Graydon making statements which appeared "belligerent" in the ministry and those associated with it.

It did not help the stability of Canada to have Mr. Graydon refer to ministers as men of straw or men holding "jobs."

ONLY "STRAW-BOSSES"

Mr. Graydon said Mr. King had "outraged himself" in misinterpreting what he had said. He mentioned men of straw, but has suggested that the new minister of reconstruction might be a "straw boss," and under study for the prime minister.

We said he was "disappointed" at the prime minister's attitude as he had the right to criticize the cabinet structure whenever he wished and would continue to do so. He had made a suggestion of abolishing departmental assistants, but said he believed some could be combined.

The matter seemed to be a "touchy" one with the prime minister.

There appeared to be a disposition to bully the opposition since in a while, he said. The opposition had 39 members, but this did not represent the situation as far as the Dominion was concerned.

PICTURIOUS MAJORITY

The prime minister and the government knew they had behind them a "mechanical, fictitious majority."

In asking us for co-operation, the prime minister must not assume we are going to surrender, said Mr.

people which despises the liberty of others, learns to consider itself a vice for itself. So Hitler even inherited a world-wide, unquestioning acquiescence. Gestapo has been attributed to him because of the successful conquering by Germany army. But these evil achievements were due to an efficient General Staff, which never ceased to exist even after the first World War. Hitler inherited that General Staff and also an efficient army secretly trained in "Sport schools" and "Athletic Organizations." Above all, let credit be given to the perfect execution of military successes were achieved by the perfect execution of millions of eager Germans fulfilling their world mission.

Another explanation of the phenomenon of national belligerence in a people which has produced Lenin, Schuler, Kant, Beethoven, Holderlin and Goethe, is that the great spirits among them have never influenced the government or the masses. Certainly they were not nationalists. Klaus Mann has written that they were great Europeans who considered it beneath their dignity to be concerned with social problems and necessities. Emil Ludwig, while conceding that the intellectual leaders applied the conquests of the Kaiser and provided him with philosophy to justify his invasion, blames all on the German admiration for violence and respect for uniforms.

What, then, shall we do with the German people? The answer requires consideration of four problems. First, punishment of the violators of International Law and the dictates of humanity. Mayor Will Travel East on Refunding

City council Monday night authorized Mayor John W. Fry, City Commissioner John Hodgson and R. G. Aylen, city auditor, to proceed to New York to discuss plans for the refinancing of an additional part of the city's bonds.

Conversations concerning their refinancing have been proceeding between the city commissioners and eastern financial interests and negotiations have sufficiently progressed to warrant Mayor Fry and Commissioner Hodgson traveling east to talk over final details of future refinancing.

Aircraft Repair Gets New Contract

A new contract has been awarded to Aircraft Repair Ltd., Edmonton's overhaul plant, according to information received from the department of munitions and supply at Ottawa.

Operations at the plant, which was affected by the closing of some R.C.A.F. training schools, have been resumed. The new contract has been obtained from Canada Car and Foundry Company, producers of bombers and fighter aircraft, and it is said to be big enough to keep the plant going steadily.

To Attend Meeting

Walter Phillips of Calgary, well-known Alberta artist who has been painting now hanging in the art gallery, will attend a meeting of the Edmonton Society of Arts at 4 p.m. Tuesday. Mr. Phillips will give a demonstration of wood block printing. Another feature of the meeting will be a showing of Kodachrome film by Edward McDougall.

Graydon: "We are to carry out our duties."

I don't want him (the Prime Minister) to rise in his seat and place certain interpretations on remarks he knows should not be placed."

Mr. King said he was prepared to be fair. He said he was not making a false interpretation on the words used by Mr. Graydon. Mr. King said he had noticed Mr. Graydon criticizing the government, but resented it when the government took exception to his remarks. He said it was not fair to say that Mr. Graydon was making a "hot spot" and the like which resulted in headlines in the press.

FREQUENT REFERENCES

"We may expect frequent references to the fact that the Prime Minister has this temper," Mr. King continued.

"If my honorable friend opposite says that I am losing my temper I am sure the public will not think that is what has happened. I will not say it is merely imagination or fiction on the part of my honorable friends, but it is something beyond to influence public opinion beyond the borders of this House of Commons."

"I say this because this evening he has skillfully endeavored to say a few things which he thinks may attract the attention of the country."

monument Regiment they were one of the first to be sent overseas. That was J. C. Jeffries, R.C.A. and his former commanding officer of the regiment.

"Jeff is absolutely top... just can't be beaten... a cool and steady leader... a new idea... he can go down on his stomach for a shell or show the slightest concern while action was heavy... were just a few of the enthusiastic exclamations uttered when the name of their former commanding officer was mentioned."

There were 12 Edmonton and Edmonton district men in the group. All were once Canadian Army personnel from overseas who returned recently on the hospital ship Lady Nelson.

Although they have received painful and serious wounds, they are easy men of The Royal Edmonton Regiment—were 1772 of the best outfit of their regiment.

BEST OUTFIT IN ARMY

"The best d—d outfit in the Canadian Army, we best the best of three crack German divisions on the way up to and at Ortona," was the way the men of the Edmonton Regiment were described by their fellow soldiers.

One of the returning Edmontonians, Pte. J. C. Jeffries, said he was sure that the "Canadians" would take Canada. He surprised them by saying that the "Canadians" would take Canada.

To the many men of The Edmonton Regiment, the "Canadians" will win the war. The older men in the German army know the war is lost and they are waiting for the "Canadians" to take Canada.

The paratroopers are all real Nazis, but they are the best of the best of the Canadian division.

One other thing is certain, so the returning soldiers said.

"The Canadians are better trained than the best of the enemy troops, although they are not as cunning and have had the advantage of better defence positions so far."

DEADLY WEAPONS

Some Scottish Highlanders carried me back in a hurry and I was operated on almost at once. That's all that saved my life as I was losing blood very fast. I was also in intense pain although I did not lose consciousness.

Low States He Will Remain In Cabinet: Outlines Program For Alberta Rehabilitation

Son, Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer and minister of education for Alberta, newly-elected national leader of the Social Credit Association of Canada, stated in an address here Monday evening that he intends to continue "for the time being" his duties in the provincial cabinet.

New Leader

"I feel I have a responsibility to the people of Alberta to carry forward and to a successful conclusion certain projects to which I have set my hand," said Mr. Low.

"Two of these are the rehabilitation of Alberta's finances through a comprehensive refunding of the debt, and the building and application of a new grant act for educational purposes. These are essential to insure the future stability of the province of Alberta, and in addition if they are properly handled, the national prestige will be enhanced.

"Therefore, I am sure I can be of greater service to our national association by continuing for the time being to discharge my responsibilities here. Of course, I shall give freely of my time and energy to the work to which you have directed me in the national field."

Social Credit policies for the internal economic organization of Canada were enumerated by Mr. Low. He urged immediate realization of Social Credit provincial organizations all across the Dominion.

"We have reached the time in our national life when the only way to bring about a straight talking and courageous action alone will save our beloved country from the disaster of a world which we have been drifting.

IT IS PLAIN

Today it is plain that unless some action is done before it is too late we shall be plunged from the war with the democratic institutions which have been the heritage of freedom completely sabotaged, and an iron rule will be imposed upon the people. There is danger that we shall be subjected to a new kind of things for which we are now fighting and sacrificing, and in their place we may see the tyrannical rule of the supreme state doctrine firmly established in Canada. This is the thing for which the flower of our manhood has gone across the ocean to die and to destroy.

I know that this is not a pleasant outlook. Believe me, if there were any grounds for viewing the future with greater optimism I should be speaking to you in this way. But the fact is that we are confronted with perils that are too great to be ignored by Canadians, and it would be blind to ignore the fact that in this situation, let me bring some of the things to your attention.

Before the war Canada had reached the stage of a constitutional democracy, whereby the people were supposed to be the constitutional supreme authority. But the war has shown that the Canadian people have been deceived by the propaganda of the war, and that the people are being deceived by the propaganda of the war. The people are being deceived by the propaganda of the war, and that the people are being deceived by the propaganda of the war.

Now the means which were used to deny the people their democratic rights and impose upon them the oppressive conditions that were the result of the war are being used to deny the people their democratic rights and impose upon them the oppressive conditions that were the result of the war.

The private money monopoly which had a stranglehold on the economic life was able to gain ever increasing control over the money power was able to exploit the money system to get them into debt. I feel to both public and private debt. This is the inevitable state that must bring upon the people a new kind of victory. It is that the kind of Canada that we are fighting for is the kind of Canada that we are fighting for.

Also, by keeping money in short supply during the war, the economic life, and operating a system which gave the people having insufficient purchasing power to buy the goods produced by the money power was able to wield supreme power. This is the kind of Canada that we are fighting for.

PRE-WAR ORDER

THE war was the pattern of the pre-war order. That was the state of affairs in our country even though we possessed the resources and the abundance, and to provide a standard of living for our people in times of economic crisis and freedom.

Then came the war—and under the compelling necessity it imposed upon the nation, the state of production were swept aside. There had been no money to finance the hungry, childless, and the old and relieving the widespread suffering which depression conditions had inflicted upon the people. All the money that was required was being used in the production of weapons of destruction which we had to have in order to fight a ruthless and powerful military machine.

avert the threat of disaster we must act—and act now while there is yet time. Moreover, we must act together as a people.

That is why the Social Credit movement across Canada met in convention at Toronto a few days ago. That is why the Social Credit movement across Canada is organizing for political action. That is why I am appealing to you tonight to join with us in a great crusade for the liberation of our nation.

The Toronto convention called me to leadership of the Social Credit movement, and in so doing, it placed upon me a great responsibility. It is the responsibility of the hour of Canada's history. I yielded to the call, not because of any love for fame and position, but because the delegates convinced me that there was another opportunity for me to serve my fellow men.

I found myself with a burning desire to do my humble but earnest establishing in Canada a relatively simple but thoroughly practical post-war order that will be for the benefit of every Canadian who will live it. It is an order that recognizes the right of men to seek and find prosperity; an order that will guarantee to every individual his free agency or right of choice; an order which, though I admit, recognizes the unequal powers or capacities of men, allows no man to suffer because of lack of capacity or natural inhibitions.

BELIEVES IN CANADA

Believing in Canada and in its destiny as a land of great promise; and because I believe that the realization of the true Canadian ideal through the establishment within its borders of a true Canadian democratic politico-economic order to provide all that makes for human security and happiness, I am committed to do my utmost to help the Canadian people to establish such an order.

And now, so that I might be of aid and assistance to you, every province in Canada should proceed at this time to establish a Social Credit organization on truly democratic principles. Every province in Canada should have the initiative in organizing groups for study and discussion of the Social Credit organization, and the organization of constituency groups, and the organization of political associations, a political party, and an organization representative of the whole province, and that be recognized as the voice of that province in the national political association. It is imperative that the preliminary organization get underway as soon as possible.

To assist you in this work, your national association will shortly appoint a full-time executive organizer who will visit you and give you a full and complete picture of the Social Credit movement. The organizer will also give you a list of the people who are interested in the Social Credit movement, and will also give you a list of the people who are interested in the Social Credit movement.

RENOVATE FINANCES

Two of the main objectives of the rehabilitation of Alberta's finances through a comprehensive refunding of the debt, and the building and application of a new grant act for educational purposes. These are essential to insure the future stability of the province of Alberta, and in addition if they are properly handled, the national prestige will be enhanced.

THE basis of our policy is the fact that the Social Credit Association of Canada is not just another federal political party machine. We have entered the political field to help the people of Canada to organize themselves so that they can elect a government to which they will carry out the will of the people—a government that will bring about the complete end of the danger of complete enslavement under a supreme state.

The alternative policy being advanced by Social Crediters for financial, economic organization is very simple and straightforward. It is to bring about the complete end of the danger of complete enslavement under a supreme state.

LAFF A-DAY

THE war was the pattern of the pre-war order. That was the state of affairs in our country even though we possessed the resources and the abundance, and to provide a standard of living for our people in times of economic crisis and freedom.
